THE CITY

Photo: gmacorig

Where do you start to summarize the history of the Eternal City? A good date might be 21 April 753 B.C. The day when Romulus is said to have founded the city after murdering his twin brother Remus. During the following centuries Rome grew into a powerful empire, peaking during the rule of Marcus Aurelius in 161-180 A.D.

Just like the ancient city, Rome today is built on seven hills: Capitolino, Palatino, Quirinale, Viminale, Esquilino, Celio and Aventino. The central area is called Campo Marzio, named after the Roman god of war, and was the ancient army's training grounds. This is where many of the famous sights are located. Other well-known areas are Trastevere, on the other side of the River Tiber, and Monti. Little Pigneto is considered the most Roman neighbourhood.

Rome is one of a kind. No other city - not even Athens, Istanbul, London or New York - has as many world-class sites as Rome. Walking down Via del Fori Imperiali towards the Colosseum will impress even the most spoiled and shopping-crazed teenager. The city has so much to offer. In addition to the Roman heritage there are also Medieval neighbourhoods, well designed squares, colourful markets and of course, the Vatican and St. Peter's Basilica. This Rome guide suggests a few other places that must be seen.

Colosseum

Colosseum is one of the most impressive sights in Rome and one of the world's most famous venues. Many people and animals were killed here, you could see everything from gladiatorial games and drama to killings and battles between wild animals. Emperor Vespasian began the building which was completed by his son Titus. The building was completed in 80 A.D. Inauguration lasted one hundred days, and approximately 9,000 animals and 2,000 gladiators were killed during the event. At its peak this place had 87,000 spectators.

Address: Piazza del Colosseo 1, Rome

Fontana di Trevi

The fountain is an impressive building situated on the Piazza di Trevi in Rome centre. It was designed by Giovanni Lorenzo Bernini, and was completed by Nicola Salvi in 1762. The fountain became world famous when Anita Ekberg splashing around in the "La Dolce Vita". Today, it is forbidden to bathe in the fountain. Trevi Fountain is a "must" to visit in Rome, and tradition says that you must throw a coin over your shoulder into the fountain and that this will bring happiness. The fountain standing 26 metres (85.3 feet) high and 20 metres (65.6 feet) wide, it is the largest Baroque fountain in the city and one of the most famous fountains in the world.

Address: Piazza di Trevi, Rome

Pantheon

It doesn't look like much from the outside, but once inside it astounds you. This dome and temple, built over 2,000 years ago, is powerful and impressive. Since the Renaissance, the building has also been used as a grave church and among others the painter Raphael (died in 1520) is buried here. The square in front of the Pantheon is called Piazza della Rotonda. It is located near Piazza Navona and Campo de Fiori so take the opportunity to stroll around in this area, there is much to see.

Address: Piazza della Rotonda, Rome

Forum Romanum

Forum Romanum, one of the world's top tourist attractions. It is like a fairy tale with its mosaic of temple ruins, worn marble streets and basilicas. It is located in the valley between the Palatine hill and the Capitoline hill. Forum Romanum was the commercial, political, and religious centre of ancient Rome. It was expanded to include temples, a senate house and law courts. When the Roman Empire fell, the Forum became forgotten, buried and was used as a cattle pasture during the Middle Ages.

Address: Via dei Fori Imperiali, Rome

Galleria Borghese

Rome falls short of Venice and Florence when it comes to art, but this gallery is an exception. The Borghese Gallery, housed in the former Villa Borghese Pinciana shows masterpieces by artists such as Bernini, Titian and Caravaggio. The Villa was built by the architect Flaminio Ponzio.

Address: Villa Borghese park, Rome

Piazza Navona

According to some, this is not just Rome's but the world's most beautiful square. Not only because of its statues and fountains such as Lorenzo Bernini's Fontana dei Quattro Fiumi, but because of its dimensions. It is one of Rome's liveliest squares, with many outdoor cafés and restaurants. This large rectangular square still manages to feel intimate.

Address: Piazza Navona, Rome

Domus Aurea – Nero's Golden House

In the year 64, Emperor Nero built a palace almost one mile long—from the Palatine hill all the way to the Oppio hill. Some parts were covered in gold, precious stones and splendid decorations. After Nero's death, it was all filled in with earth in order to obliterate the tyrant's memory. It was accidentally rediscovered in the 15th century, and today you can walk through 30 of Nero's 150 underground rooms.

Santa Costanza

Rome has more churches than almost any other city in the world. One of the most beautiful, Santa Costanza, can be found in Via Nomentana in the north of Rome, and is home to some of the most dazzling ceiling frescoes from the 4th century. The waiting time for weddings here is several years.

Address: Via di Santa Costanza, Rome

Museo di Roma

The Museo di Roma houses approximately 40,000 sculptures, paintings and mosaics describing Rome's history from the Middle Ages until 1870. The museum is located in Palazzo Braschi, built in the 18th century. During the fascist regime, Mussolini moved here and made it his political headquarters. After the Second World War 300 families were evacuated to this location and many of the frescoes were damaged by the fires people lit in order to keep warm.

Spanish Steps

Spanish Steps is located at Piazza di Spagna and leads to the French church, Trinità dei Monti. The monumental stairway of 138 steps was designed in 1723 by Francesco De Sanctis, and funded by a French diplomat Stefano Gueffier. It is usually very crowded during the summer months, with tourists just sitting, chatting, and taking a rest from visiting the designer shops that cover the area. The name "Spanish Steps" is actually quite misleading because the stairs do not have anything to do with Spain, it is simply borrowed from the name of the piazza at the foot of the stairs, Piazza di Spagna. The Italian name is Scalinata della Santissima Trinita dei Monti or Scalinata di Spagna.

Address: Piazza di Spagna, Rome

The Vatican City

The smallest state in the world, The Vatican City is situated in Rome. This is the home of the Pope but also almost a thousand other residents. DINING

Rome restaurants cater to all tastes. There are American steakhouses, Lebanese meze restaurants, Vietnamese eateries, and a number of haute cuisine establishments celebrated in the Guide Michelin, but "when in Rome, do as the Romans do" and choose the less extravagant restaurants and trattorias for a memorable dining experience.

The Italian word for dinner, "cena," comes from the Latin convivium. A word which means "live together" and that is precisely what you do. Eating is a social get-together which lasts at least three courses—often even at lunchtime. The Romans do not eat dinner until nine in the evening.

The traditional Roman pasta is called Carbonara and is made from pork and whipped egg yolk with lots of parmesan and black pepper, or all'Amatriciana with bacon, tomato and onion.

Vegetables are ordered as a side dish ("contorno"), accompanying the main dish, e.g. tossed spinach or chicory with garlic and pepperoncino (Spanish peppers).

Trattoria Cavalier Gino

A simple trattoria popular amongst politicians and journalists. It proves that when it comes to food, the Romans are no snobs. The speciality of the house is coniglio al vino bianco (rabbit in white wine) and an exquisite tiramisu.

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

The Romans love to meet over an aperitivo around 19.30, after which they either go on to a restaurant or home for dinner. The drinks need not necessarily be alcoholic. Many bars serve light snacks which are included in the price.

After 23.00 most of those looking to party head over to the Testaccio area. Named after the mountain of discarded amphora's, the area is home to many sites, ranging from small piano bars to equally small discos. Make sure you take at least a night out to experience the bar and club scene in Rome.

SHOPPING

High fashion shopping in Rome is concentrated to two streets running parallel to each other from the Spanish Steps. Via Condotti is home to Prada, Valentino, Gucci, Armani, and Max-Mara. Over on Via Borgognona, one can find the likes of Dolce & Gabbana, Versace, Gianfranco Ferré, Laura Biagiotti, and Gai Mattiolo. Closer to Piazza Navona is Via dei Giubbonari, and its street fashion stores McQueen and Liquid. Also nearby is Via del Governo Vecchio, with its elegant vintage fashion boutiques.

When it comes to food, Rome has several notable spots. Volpetti, on Via Marmorata 47 in Testaccio, is as close to heaven as you can get. This bustling, high-paced place offers many deli options—Latini pasta from Osimo, salsiccia and spicy sandwich meats its speciality, however, is its cheeses, including the formaggio di fossa, matured underground. Two other delis to revel in are ancient Franchi and Castroni on Via Cola di Rienzo. Castroni offers a slightly more international selection. Campo de' Fiori is the site of a daily food market that embodies the terms picturesque and colourful. Come early when the shadows are long and the morning is at its freshest. Another nice market, with more of a food hall atmosphere is Mercato di

Testaccio.

Upmarket antiques can be found on Via dei Coronari, jewellers on Via dell'Orso and Via dei Pianellari. Via San Francesco di Sales 85 is the address for Cereria Di Giorgio, which sells all kinds of candles—the Vatican is their largest and most devoted customer. In the long shopping street Via del Corso, which runs from Piazza Venezia down to Piazza del Popolo, there are shops to suit all pockets. Chains such as Stefanel, Etam, The Group, and Benetton are sandwiched between specialist boutiques. Also, many shoe shops, sports shops and music stores such as Il Messaggero Musicale can be found here. Cola di Rienzo, in the Prati district of the city, is also lined with various reasonably priced shops.

Rome does not have the department store culture of many other large cities. The Romans prefer small, intimate and familiar boutiques. In the centre though, there are three department store chains:

Carlo Cecchini

Peruse the high-quality leather creations of Carlo Cecchini himself, whose strong creativity and imagination result in a vast range of designs conceived for a varied crowd of all ages and styles. His production, of bags, totes, wallets, shoes and purses, follows the guiding principles of the old Italian leather making traditions, only using top quality raw materials treated and manufactured according to centuries old traditions.

Leonardo da Vinci - Airport

Rome's main airport, Leonardo da Vinci, is located in Fiumicino, 30 kilometres (18.5 miles) from the city.

There are several different ways for you to get into the city centre from the airport:

Leonardo Express

The Leonardo Express leaves every half hour in each direction and connects Roma Termini station with Fiumicino airport. Tickets can be bought at machines, travel agencies, ticket desks and on the website.

Train

You can reach Rome by train directly to the Termini railway station.

Metro

The metropolitan train FM1 links the airport with regions like Fara Sabina, Orte and Poggio Mirteto. Please note that the Metro does not stop at central station Termini.

Terravision Shuttle Bus

This bus line takes you to the central station Termini.

The city's second airport Ciampino is situated 12.0 km south southeast of central Rome and is mainly served by low-cost airlines and package tours.

Bus

Some of the low-cost airlines have their own buses. The regular buses depart from the nearby underground station Anagnina.

Taxi

A taxi ride from the airport and central Rome takes 20 minutes.

Address: Via dell' Aeroporto di Fiumicino 320, Rome

Phone: +39 06 65951

Internet: www.adr.it / www.ciampino-airport.info / www.trenitalia.com /

Public Transport

The Termini station is the hub for Rome's transportation network. The name of the local bus and streetcar company is ATAC. All tickets must be purchased from ATAC ticket machines, newsagents, or ticket outlets on the underground. The underground runs until midnight. Night buses stop at stations marked "N".

There are also different choices of travel passes for 1, 3 or 7 days that are valid on all public transportation.

Taxi

Taxi stands can be found throughout the city centre. It is recommended that tourists only use the licensed yellow and white taxis. An extra fee is payable per suitcase to and from the airport. There is also a surcharge at night, on public holidays and on Sundays. It is cheaper to hail a taxi in the street than at a taxi stand or to book via telephone. Tipping at 5-10% is encouraged.

Post

The Post Office is usually open 09.00-14.30 from Monday to Friday and between 09.30-13.00 on Saturdays.

Stamps can be bought at tobacconists that either carry the blue and white "Tabacchi" sign or are simply marked "T".

Pharmacy

You recognise a pharmacy in Rome by a green sign with a cross. They are open Monday-Friday 08.30-13.00 and 15.30-19.00. On Via Nazionale 228, Via Arenula 73 and Piazza Barberini there are pharmacies open night time.

Telephone

Country code +39

Rome area code: 06 (also dialled in Rome) If you call Italy from abroad, you must always dial zero in the area code (do not omit it as is the general practice when making international telephone calls), e.g. +39 06 + the number.
